The background is a vibrant red-tinted collage of numerous student photographs. These photos are arranged in a radial pattern, with each photo occupying a wedge-shaped segment that points towards the center. The students are shown in various poses and settings, creating a sense of a large, active community. In the center of the collage is a large, solid black silhouette. This silhouette has a central, rounded, cloud-like shape, from which several pointed, petal-like or star-like shapes radiate outwards, mirroring the radial arrangement of the photos. The overall effect is one of unity and collective identity.

Luckily we didn't get in trouble or get bad grades. The honors and rewards began piling up for us and we ended up with a good education. We hope we leave a good example for future CSDR students and encourage them to study harder.

We wish to thank you our parents, teachers, and schoolmates who struggled with us from preschool to high school in pursuit of our education. It turned out to be a great learning adventure that helped us grow and learn — and an adventure that we will cherish forever!
